

Share your evidence-based food story with the public

So, you are a scientist, but maybe not a science writer – yet?

We can help you with that!

Not sure what to write about?

We can help with that, too.

There's often a story embedded in in the research process – whether it's your personal story as a scientist, a key question that impacts society, an emerging theory, an innovative method, or a specific finding that moves the research agenda forward.

Interested in sharing your story?

Email Dr. Keri Szejda, CRIS Bits Senior Editor, keri.szejda@asu.edu

Check us out at CRISBits.org

The CRIS Bits Blog is part of a science communication initiative led by the Risk Innovation Lab at Arizona State University and funded by the Center for Research on Ingredient Safety at Michigan State University. Please see our guiding principles located at <https://crisbits.org/guiding-principles>.